HOW VELVET SPELLS ELEGANCE for AFTERNOON

Forester Green With a Wide Girde

Mouse Gray in Simple Line

Skunk Fur on Dark Blue Velvet

Gold Braid and Buttons Trim White Panné Velvet

A Brown Pegtop Model

SINCE the days of beauty in fabrics—and it would be difficult to place the chronological finger on the time when ladies faire first wore regal velvet—there has been acknowledgment of its elegance, artistic worth, beauty and grace in costumes for women. Today for afternoon velvet spells success for its wearers, and these models attest to that statement.

The rich shades of brown, green, blue and wine are favored. In Paris there is a decided prominence of yellow in all its tones for velvet suits and gowns. The afternoon dress has received special attention as a happy medium for the expression of the beauty of velvet.

Dark-blue velvet is enriched by skunk fur in the afternoon gown that shows a draped skirt at the top. The neck line is cut in a V, and edged with fur is the shallow collar that turns back from the tulle guimpe. Sleeves are elbow length and have cuffs trimmed with fur. The fullness of the bodice is drawn in at a high line in front and caught under a jet buckle that holds loops of satin ribbon. There is art in the drapery of the skirt, the fullness being caught up at the top and folds of the fabric falling to the edge of the hem, which is finished with a broad band of fur.

White panne velvet has splendid opportunity for showing contrast with gold braid in the afternoon model that is for indoors. The fastening at the front is defined by gold buttons and corded buttonholes, while a decidedly new sleeve is worthy of note. This is cut with a point at the elbow, and the long line from elbow to wrist is emphasized by a row of buttons. At the hips of this gown is a fitted peplum of velvet that is braided with gold cord and falls in points over each hip. The skirt has a fold at one side that is turned in and trimmed with buttons, the open edge giving a pegtop effect.

The simplicity of mouse-gray velvet is carried out in the general line of the dress that would be elegant enough for formal wear. This has a plain bodice with a side line that suggests a Russian line, which is defined by buttons. There is a narrow belt, and on the overskirt there is a pointed yoke that extends back to the center of the back panel. Sleeves are short and the fullness is gathered into narrow cuffs. The lower skirt is plain.

In a deep russet-brown velvet there is exemplified the pegtop idea. This is a conservative model, and therefore becoming to all figures. Around the waist line is a celestial-blue girde of satin. The lower part of the skirt is slashed and falls around the feet in easy folds.

In the velvet dress that has a contrasting bodice of chiffon over lace there is a combination of forester green and gold. The skirt has three sections, that show a bias line. At the girde a wide fold of gold sounds a beautiful note. The bodice has a trimming of pleated chiffon down the front and at the cuffs. Gold buttons finish the fastening.

If you have a velvet gown the afternoon, with its many demands, can be met smilingly. Elegance is yours. That means satisfaction, for which woman does not like to be elegantly dressed? How to attain this is shown in the group of the latest models.

THE GOVERNMENT THAT CAN'T DO IT

Because It Does Not Know
Its Own Mind on Matters.

FREE WHEAT WANTED

Mr. Lesperance Denies Scheme With Liberals.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—"The Government is out of touch with the Canadian sentiment. It is out of touch with the great mass of the people. It lacks settled belief and a moral issue. Canadians can't trade without restriction. Canadians can't build ships. Canadians can't get the high cost of living. Let had enough alone—such statements will meet with no response from the Canadian people. He leaders have no convictions on the great questions before the country. They know not where they stand on a permanent policy, on the British preference, on a reduction of duties, on free wheat. The one thing—and the only thing—upon which they unite is reckless extravagance. Using all we can out of the British people, like prodigals, let us eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die," such was the vigorous epitome of the position of the Hon. George Meighen, in concluding his speech to the House.

He was followed by Hon. Arthur Meighen, the new leader, who was not going to anticipate any discussion, he said. That must be left to the Budget. He predicted, however, that there was little to fear from the policy of free food for a generation. His enforcement would mean "disaster to industries." Neither did he expect himself on free wheat from agricultural implements. "The revision of the tariff will be made in due course," said Mr. Meighen. "When that time comes I will accept full responsibility for my own part in my recent association with the Government."

Having said this much, Mr. Meighen devoted himself to a technical discussion of the highway bill, which was the subject of the debate. The amendments of the Senate were unnecessary and destructive of the bill and consequently met with the abandonment by the Government. Mr. David Laforey, the Ontario speaker, who spoke in French, following which the House adjourned for the weekend. The vote on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's amendment would probably be taken on Monday.

CEASE MAKING EXCUSES.

Mr. E. W. Nesbitt, (Mont. Oxford), who resumed the debate this afternoon, said the Government had been advised to cease making excuses for the dropping of its naval contribution policy.

Mr. Nesbitt observed, "That the Government dropped the bill because the country did not rise to it. The men who have been satisfied, but the ordinary people who are not making their living, the farmers, the laborers, and the workers of the country are well satisfied with the dropping of a project whose sole object would have been to encourage Germany and other European nations to further armaments and to discourage any proposal for a naval holiday." Whereupon the opposition leader, Mr. Nesbitt, said that the Government was not going to make any more excuses. He was consistent in submitting his remedy. He had always toward a policy in favor of the navy. He did not continue free food to the farmers, but he would take it," he declared. "To include the fancy canned goods, the fancy cheeses, the fancy pickles and so on, and then to take away the duties and the taxes on the tables of well restaurants and rich hotels to pay duty on those things."

Mr. Nesbitt referred to the fact that Hon. Mr. White had accused him of stating on the platform that the appointment of the "Cost of Living Commission" by the Government as a solution of existing conditions was "a rotten idea." He pleaded guilty to declaring it a "rotten idea," he said. "And," he added, "it was a rotten idea. It showed the terms of decay from the start."

Mr. Nesbitt declared that the Government was not going to take away the duties and the taxes on the tables of well restaurants and rich hotels to pay duty on those things. He declared that the Government was not going to take away the duties and the taxes on the tables of well restaurants and rich hotels to pay duty on those things. He declared that the Government was not going to take away the duties and the taxes on the tables of well restaurants and rich hotels to pay duty on those things.

Mr. White had declared that the Government was not going to take away the duties and the taxes on the tables of well restaurants and rich hotels to pay duty on those things. He declared that the Government was not going to take away the duties and the taxes on the tables of well restaurants and rich hotels to pay duty on those things.

of no inclination to grant the request of the western farmer. So far as the Ontario farmer is concerned, he had no objection to free wheat. Why not let the wheat of the westerners in, in regard, and not only give them free wheat but extend the same idea to other cereals as well.

"The Premier and his friends," Mr. Nesbitt said, "are not going to let the farmers from obtaining the open market, but if free cereal is to be a benefit to the west why not grant the farmers' request? Why say to the western farmers, 'Now you own your own business? Why not give their plan a trial?'"

The only conceivable reason for the Government's attitude, Mr. Nesbitt said, was because of the millers. Such a reason was not sound, however, for it was clear that free wheat could not affect the milling interests injuriously.

"Talk of protection for the farmers," said Mr. Nesbitt. "It will be impossible much longer to calpe the farmers into the belief that he is protected by protection. He knows that he is able to compete with other farmers, and he wants the open market."

"There is no denying that there is privation and hardship in the country," said Mr. Nesbitt in closing. "Times will improve, but unless there is a change in the method of administering public affairs, conditions will not greatly improve in the west."

CONSERVATIVE POINTS TO OMISSIONS.

E. N. Lewis (West Huron) expressed regret that there had been no reference in the speech from the throne to the important question of transportation on inland waters of the Dominion. He made fitting reference to the recent lakes disaster, and urged that action be taken to secure the safety of the lakes for life and property on the lakes, and to improve the navigation of the lakes. He also drew attention to the recent increase in interest demanded by the banks on loans, and argued that when the interest rate on loans is increased the banks should also be compelled to reduce the rate allowed on deposits. After calling the attention of the Minister of Justice to the desirability of indemnifying the innocent Italian released from prison after serving a term of years, Mr. Lewis suggested that the Government should negotiate with Great Britain with a view to having Canadian sailors sent to Canadian waters, and that our young seamen and fishermen might be trained in naval service, and a naval reserve created.

"EJECTED AND OWNED BY THE COMBINES."

"The Government offers no remedy for existing conditions because it fears such a proceeding would reflect on the high interests," said Mr. J. H. Macpherson, who followed. It had no word of cheer for the people, the unemployed and the fishermen. He elected by the combines and owned by the combines, and his patriotism was the "common patriotism of the high interests." In support of his contention, Mr. Sinclair quoted a front-row supporter, Mr. W. F. Mackenzie, who had declared after the South Bruce by-election that the Government was controlled by the banks and railways and directed from Montreal, where the Ontario ministers "held in contempt by the people." He also showed that upon representations of the farmers' Manitoba Association of Toronto, Hon. Mr. Haasen had cancelled his repeal of the tariff on wheat. He formally announcing it in the House. Mr. Sinclair further intimated the case of the lumber combine on the prairies, and the Government's repudiation of the recent repeal of the tariff on wheat. He called for free wheat, both actions taken at the behest of the combine. He then quoted Mr. Arthur Meighen, the Solicitor-General, who was to follow him, to state the Government's position in the question of free wheat and free agricultural implements.

MARKS DENIAL.

When Mr. D. O. Lesperance, of Montmagny, warmly complained to Parliament this afternoon that the Government was not going to make any more excuses for the dropping of its naval contribution policy, the Ontario Conservative papers were making "distinct accusations and insinuations" from the "rotten idea" of the "Cost of Living Commission."

The double attack over the projected bill of Mr. Lesperance to repeal the Laurier naval act. The Conservative papers of the Dominion have been making "distinct accusations and insinuations" from the "rotten idea" of the "Cost of Living Commission."

Standing between Mr. John Stantfield, the chief Government whip, and Sir Robert Borden, whose name has also been associated by one wing of the Conservative party with the action of the Government, the Montmagny member spoke on a matter of principle.

"I give absolute denial," he declared warmly. "To the charge that I have directly or indirectly attempted to negotiate with the enemy, I give absolute denial. I forward my bill, and I say it is a malicious and false charge to say my action was intended to negotiate with the enemy. My sense of personal honor and public duty will be appreciated by the particular friends of the Government. The bill is ready."

The schism between the factions of the Government was further deepened when Mr. Lesperance concluded the action applauded his declaration, the Government was not going to take any more excuses, and he looked around and nodded to his supporters, but did not applaud his statement.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson read the House a statement of the results of the meeting on Monday next certain international trains, including the Oceanic, which was to be the first of the C. P. R. trains would stay on this, he declared, would be a great advantage to the country. He was asked concerning the truth of the report.

Mr. George W. Cochrane, Minister of Railways, was not in the House at the time, and Premier Borden contented himself with saying that he would call the Minister's attention to Mr. Emmerson's complaint. Mr. George W. Kyle (Richmond, N.S.) also spoke, and said that he was not yet fully satisfied with the Hon. Mr. Lesperance's report.

It has been said that when persons want a certain thing, want it at no matter what cost, they generally get it, and this exactly some of the feeling of the residents of Watford, in reference to the proposed Hydro-Electric Line through the village. IMPORTANT FACTS

FROM THE SIXTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CANADIAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

In important respects the Company in 1913 excelled its record for any previous year in its history.

1—THE SURPLUS EARNED in 1913 was $1,700,950.66, exceeding by over $179,000 the earnings of 1912, and by a much larger amount the earnings of any previous year. The present net surplus is $6,183,278.39.

2—THE INCOME of $8,094,885.70 was greater than that of the previous year by $698,126.96, and the greatest in the Company's history. The rate of interest earned, which had been steadily advancing since 1899, was further improved in 1913. This is an important factor in producing surplus.

3—THE ASSETS were increased by $3,860,271.32, and now stand at $52,161,794.81.

4—THE TOTAL ASSURANCES now in force are for $153,121,363.94, an increase of over $8,273,000 in the year.

5—THE PAYMENTS TO POLICYHOLDERS in 1913 totalled $2,780,016.11, an increase of $415,051.31 over those of 1912. In addition to this, LOANS TO POLICYHOLDERS on security of their policy contracts were made for $1,692,248.71.

6—THE MORTALITY of the year was again more favorable than the expectation, and this, with a continued LOW EXPENSE RATIO, contributed to the earning of a record surplus.

The Financial Statement and Report of Directors, together with proceedings at the annual meeting, held 22nd January, 1914, are in the printer's hands and in a few days will be mailed on request.
